Fat Joe Says He Wanted to ‘Keep It New York’ by Recruiting Jay Z for ‘All the Way Up’ Remix: Listen See latest videos, charts and news Snoop appears first, floating through his sixteen “like Elroy Jetson” before The Game steps in and Milly Rocks on the Cool, Dre and Edclusive-produced beat. E-40 rounds out the California-based sequel by dropping bars about his lavish life with courtside seats and $10,000 worth of diamonds in his teeth. The single, which also includes contributions from French Montana and Infared, recently got a huge co-sign from Brooklyn OG Jay Z, who offered a verse on the first official remix in May. Meek Mill and Fabolous also spun their own version that same month. Ballin’ Out Podcast: Fat Joe & the WNBA’s Breanna Stewart on How They Came ‘All the Way Up’ Terror Squad’s own Fat Joe and Remy Ma will be tearing it up for a forthcoming joint project titled Platas O Plomo due later this year.
